PAWS FOR ADVENTURE

Paws for Adventure was started by Leslie Goodwin-Williams in 1998 after she fell in love with the art of dog mushing while teaching in a remote Alaska village. Now, with over 60 dogs, Paws for Adventure offers one of the most authentic dog sled experiences in Alaska.

Paws began as a Mushing School, teaching people how to drive their own dogsled with 3 or 4 dogs pulling the sled.

Success is measured in many ways. Success for Paws for Adventure has been in balancing authenticity with the demand for dogsled tours. Interior Alaska has seen an incredible increase in visitors during our winter aurora and dogsledding season. We know our limits, we know our dogs and we limit our numbers to keep that balance. While day tours drive the industry (short rides mostly), we step outside that box to offer mushing school, overnight and multi-day tours. Not only do our dogs enjoy the change of scenery and longer trails, but our guests get to find a whole other Alaska to explore—the Alaska not many get to see.

WHITE PASS & YUKON ROUTE RAILROAD

Built in 1898 to open the Klondike to gold seekers, this narrow-gauge railway, originally stretching from Skagway, Alaska, to Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, was completed in 1900 with the driving of the ceremonial Golden Spike in Carcross, Yukon. The construction of this engineering marvel, known as "The Scenic Railway of the World", took the labor of 35,000 working men to complete during two years of harsh weather conditions & treacherous terrains, using only black blasting powder and crude tools to hew out the 110-mile line. In 1994, the WP&YR was named an International Historic Civil Engineering Landmark, joining the likes of the Statue of Liberty, the Panama Canal, and the Eiffel Tower.

Today, guests experience the breathtaking panorama of mountains, glaciers, trestles & tunnels from the comfort of vintage train cars. Trips depart from Skagway, AK, Fraser, BC, Carcross, YT, & Whitehorse, YT, between early May and late September each year. The White Pass & Yukon Route is Alaska's most popular shore excursion and a favorite on many Alaska/Yukon travelers must-see lists

ADVENTURE GREEN ALASKA

Sustainable tourism may be defined as travel to natural areas that is beneficial to local economies, respectful of the environment and sensitive to indigenous cultures. Increasingly, visitors are seeking these exact types of travel experiences and Alaska is a natural fit!

Since 2009, Adventure Green Alaska (AGA) has recognized and promoted model Alaska tourism businesses who practice economic, environmental, social and cultural sustainability. AGA encourages tourism businesses to evaluate their operations and determine whether they use – or could be using – best sustainable management practices. Companies in this directory with the AGA logo are certified, or have specific product certified, under the current AGA criteria and must continue to submit a recertification application every two years to continue to demonstrate their sustainable practices.
